

Fourth Quarter Financial Results Fiscal Year 2024 (Ending March 2025)

May 1, 2025
Seiko Epson Corporation

■ Q4 Results

- Both revenue and business profit increased YoY.
 - ✓ Grew revenue in printing solutions and manufacturing-related & wearables
 - ✓ Profit grew on higher revenue. In addition, there was a negative impact from reduced inventory in the same period last year.
- Revenue was generally in line with the internal plan, but business profit exceeded the plan owing to higher-than-expected selling prices, particularly in office & home printing, as well as the impact of inventory in visual communications.

■ FY2025 full-year financial outlook

- We have factored in the impact from additional U.S. tariff rates but will mitigate the negative impact by responding rapidly and flexibly.
- Both revenue and business profit are expected to decrease due to the negative impact of exchange rates.
- We anticipate paying an annual dividend per share of 74 yen for FY2025, continuing with our basic policy to provide stable dividends despite uncertainty regarding factors such as the impact of U.S. tariffs.

- This is a summary of the key points in today's presentation.
- Fourth quarter revenue and business profit increased year on year.
- Revenue was generally in line with the internal plan, but business profit exceeded the plan owing to higher-than-expected selling prices, particularly in office & home printing, as well as the impact of inventory in visual communications.
- U.S. tariff effects have been factored into the FY2025 full-year financial outlook, but we will mitigate the negative impact by responding rapidly and flexibly.
- We also took into account the negative impact of exchange rates, and both revenue and business profit are expected to decrease compared to the last year.
- We expect to continue to pay steady dividends in line with our basic policy and plan to pay an annual dividend of 74 yen per share for FY2025.

- Revenue
 - Grew revenue in printing solutions and manufacturing-related & wearables
- Business profit
 - Profit increased along with revenue growth.
 - In the same period last year, profit was negatively impacted from reduced inventory.
- Profit from operating activities
 - In FY2023Q4, recorded ¥4.8 billion in expenses related to pension buyout
 - In FY2024Q4, recorded foreign exchange loss and an impairment loss in manufacturing solutions
- Profit before tax
 - Recorded foreign exchange loss, compared to a gain in FY2023Q4

- These are our fourth-quarter results.
- Revenue was ¥339.1 billion, up by ¥17.2 billion year on year, on growth in printing solutions and manufacturing-related & wearables.
- Business profit was ¥15.6 billion, up by ¥5.2 billion on higher revenue.
- Profit from operating activities was ¥12.2 billion. It was impacted by foreign exchange losses due to the appreciation of the yen across the fourth quarter, as well as an impairment loss of ¥0.7 billion in manufacturing solutions resulting from worsening profitability due primarily to a slow market recovery in key sales regions.
- Profit before tax was ¥11.1 billion. Profit for the period was ¥7.7 billion.
- Revenue was generally in line with the internal plan that served as the basis for the previous forecast.
- However, business profit exceeded the plan owing to higher than expected unit sales and selling prices, particularly in office & home printing, as well as the impact of inventory in visual communications.
- I will explain the disparities between the plan and our results in each business on the coming slides.

Office & Home Printing

- Revenue grew as IJP hardware sales for high-capacity ink tank and office shared printers increased while unit prices remained flat.
- Although ink cartridge sales decreased, IJP ink revenue increased overall on growth in sales of high-capacity ink bottles and office shared IJP ink.

- The financial results in printing solutions are shown here.
- Revenue was ¥248.3 billion, up ¥18.0 billion year on year. Segment profit was ¥28.1 billion, up ¥6.3 billion.
- Revenue in office & home printing was ¥167.5 billion. Business profit was ¥15.4 billion.
- Revenue for inkjet printer hardware increased as unit sales grew for high-capacity ink tank printers and office shared printers while unit prices remained flat.
- Inkjet printer ink revenue increased on expanded sales of high-capacity ink bottles and office shared IJP ink, which more than made up for weakness in ink cartridge sales resulting from a change in the number of printers in the field.
- Business profit increased on higher revenue and the absence of a negative impact on profit from inventory reductions as was experienced in the same period last year.
- Both revenue and business profit exceeded the internal plan mainly because unit sales of hardware and ink exceeded expectations and we were able to keep selling prices from deteriorating.

Commercial & Industrial Printing

- Sales of commercial & industrial IJP finished products were flat year on year due to constrained customer investment.
- Printhead sales grew on robust demand from Chinese printer manufacturers.
- Includes the financial results of Fiery in commercial & industrial IJP, acquired in Dec. 2024
- Demand remained steady in the small printers and other category.

- Commercial & industrial printing revenue was ¥80.7 billion. Business profit was ¥12.6 billion.
- The commercial & industrial inkjet printer finished products business saw performance vary across different product categories and regions. Overall, however, customers continue to refrain from investing and were flat compared to the same period last year.
- Printhead sales continued to grow on robust demand from Chinese printer manufacturers.
- Fiery's results for the four months following the acquisition in December are included in the fourth quarter results.
- Sales of small printers and other products remained stable because, although sales were weak in North America, they expanded in Europe and Asia.
- Both revenue and business profit fell short of the internal plan. This was due to soft demand for commercial & industrial inkjet printer finished products, as well as to the higher amortization expenses resulting from the valuation of Fiery's intangible assets.

■ Visual Communications

- Sales of high-lumen models remained firm, but sales of projectors for office and education decreased.

■ Manufacturing-Related & Wearables

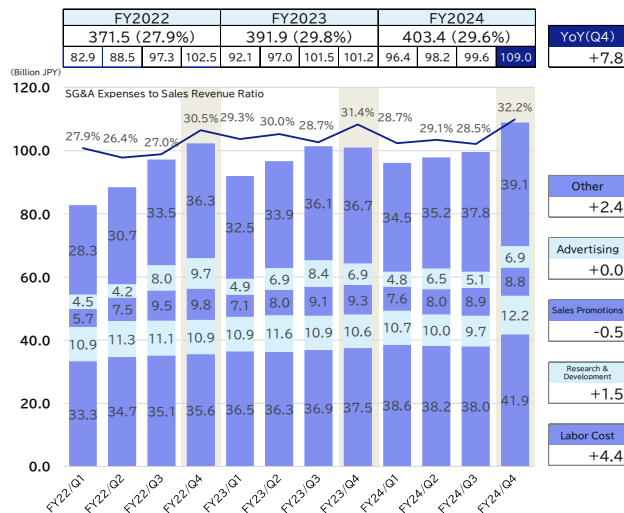

- Manufacturing solutions controlled spending amid ongoing investment curbs in China, Europe and the Americas.
- Wearable products saw continued firm demand from visitors to Japan.
- Microdevices, other showed signs of a recovery in demand.
- PC demand increased as OS support nears its end.

- Visual communications revenue was ¥44.7 billion, a decrease of ¥3.4 billion.
- Sales of high-lumen projectors increased, but global markets remained soft, and sales of projectors for office and education use declined.
- Segment profit was ¥4.9 billion, down ¥2.1 billion on lower revenue.
- Revenue exceeded the plan. Segment profit also exceeded the plan due to the revenue increase and to the positive impact on profit of a larger than anticipated increase in inventories.
- Manufacturing related and wearables revenue was ¥47.2 billion, an increase of ¥3.9 billion. Segment profit was a loss of ¥0.3 billion.
- In manufacturing solutions, manufacturers in China, Europe, and North America continued to show reluctance to invest in automation.
- Wearable products revenue remained strong thanks to a recovery in demand from visitors to Japan.
- In microdevices and other products, market inventory adjustments appear to be winding down, and we have recently begun seeing a recovery in demand.
- A rise in PC demand was seen ahead of the end of operating system support.
- The loss recorded for segment profit shrank owing to these factors.
- Revenue and segment profit both fell short of the internal plan.

- Next, I will explain our fiscal 2024 full-year financial results.
- We posted ¥1,362.9 billion in revenue, ¥89.5 billion in business profit, and ¥55.1 billion in profit for the period.
- Exchange rate volatility from last fiscal year had a ¥41.1 billion positive effect on revenue and a ¥3.5 billion positive effect on business profit due to yen depreciation.

- Business profit was ¥89.5 billion, exceeding the previous outlook.
 - Unit sales in office & home printing as well as projectors exceeded expectations.
 - Selling prices were higher than anticipated in office & home printing.
 - Parts costs and transportation costs, as well as other changes, was basically in line with the plan.
 - Positive impact in exchange rates from yen depreciation

*1 Fiery's share of the business profit equivalent is entirely accounted for as a change in unit sales in the current outlook.

*2 Includes the effects of inventory changes & accounting adjustments in the PC business

- Now, let me explain the factors that caused business profit to exceed the previous outlook.
- Unit sales in office & home printing as well as projectors exceeded expectations.
- Prices in office & home printing also exceeded expectations.
- Although there were changes in parts and transportation costs, as well as in other costs, the overall total was generally in line with the plan.
- Exchange rates positively impacted profit owing to the weak yen.

■ Visual Communications

- Results were negatively impacted by education budget & tender opportunity adjustments in various countries and the Chinese economic slowdown.
- Sales of high-lumen projectors, a growth category, increased.

■ Manufacturing-related & Wearables

- Manufacturing solutions: Impacted by curbed investment in China, Europe, and the Americas.
- Wearable products: Sales grew on a recovery in demand from visitors to Japan.
- Microdevices: A market recovery was seen in crystal devices, but adjustments in semiconductors continue.
- PC: Sales grew, but results were negatively affected by accounting adjustments in Q3.

FY2024 Review (Vs. Initial Outlook)

EPSON

- Exceeded the initial outlook targets* of ¥80.0 billion in business profit and an ROS of 6.0% for FY2024
- Contained fixed costs (in other changes) in response to the shortfall in unit sales (microdevices & projectors) resulting from market softness. Exchange rates had a positive impact.

* Initial outlook for the first year working toward the new FY25 targets for Epson 25 Renewed (announced in April 2024).

- Let me explain our status toward Epson 25 Renewed targets.
- Commercial & industrial IJP and office shared IJP grew in FY2024.
- On the other hand, unit sales of microdevices and projectors declined due to market changes. Nevertheless, we were able to exceed the initial plan for business profit by controlling fixed costs.

- The future steps announced in April 2024 are generally on track.
 - Fiery was acquired for future growth in commercial & industrial IJP.
 - Drive profit structure reform and operations innovations in manufacturing solutions.

	Future steps announced Apr. 2024	FY2024 Review
Office shared IJPs	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Respond to demands for greater convenience and lower prices and continue to reduce costs Revise regional & partner strategies and strengthen IJP value messaging 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Launched A4 linehead inkjet multifunction printers. Overall	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Take actions to reduce costs globally 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Reduced fixed and other costs Conducted restructuring of semiconductor related fab in Singapore Reorganized sales companies in North America

- The future steps announced in April of last year are generally on track.
- In commercial & industrial IJP, we took steps toward further growth, including the acquisition of Fiery.
- In response to the challenging business environment in manufacturing solutions, we initiated a revamping of the profit structure and promoted operational reforms.

- Fourth-Quarter Financial Results
- FY2024 Full-Year Financial Result
- Epson 25 Renewed Progress
- FY2025 Full-Year Financial Outlook and Shareholder Returns

- Effects of U.S. tariffs have been factored into the FY2025 financial outlook.
 - We expect to keep the negative impact on business profit to ¥8.0 billion.
 - ✓ We estimate a ¥17.0 billion increase in tariffs (10% Additional tariff basic rate, 20% for China*)
 - ✓ Outlook reflects higher prices in the U.S. and lower unit sales due to curbed demand.
- We will closely monitor the situation and respond swiftly and flexibly to fulfill our supply responsibilities to customers.
 - Optimize sales & promotions in response to changes in demand.
 - Production transfer
 - ✓ Although less than 10% of our U.S. imports are produced in China, we are planning to transfer the production of some products to other sites to minimize the impact.

* U.S. tariffs toward China are unclear, and has a small impact to Epson as we will take countermeasures

Business	Main production areas
Office & home printing	the Philippines, Indonesia, China
Commercial & industrial printing	the Philippines, Indonesia, China, Japan
Visual communications	the Philippines, China
Manufacturing solutions	China, Japan

- Next, I will explain the financial outlook for the 2025 fiscal year.
- We included the effects of U.S. tariffs in our outlook.
- We see tariffs increasing by ¥17 billion. However, after factoring in higher prices in the U.S. and a decline in unit sales due to curbed demand, we expect to limit the negative impact on business profit to ¥8 billion.
- Although less than 10% of our North American imports are produced in China, we are planning to transfer the production of some products to other sites to minimize the impact.
- We will continue to closely monitor the tariff situation and do everything we can to respond rapidly and flexibly to fulfill our supply responsibilities to customers.

- I would like to explain our 2025 full fiscal year financial outlook.
- The outlook assumes a substantial yen appreciation.
- In the 2025 fiscal year, we expect changes in exchange rates from last fiscal year to have a negative ¥97 billion impact on revenue and a ¥25 billion impact on business profit.
- Due to this, we have forecasted ¥1,320 billion in revenue and ¥75 billion in business profit.
- Profit from operating activities is expected to come in at ¥63 billion due to foreign exchange loss resulting from yen appreciation and due to restructuring costs as we seek to increase profitability.
- Profit for the period is forecasted to be ¥41 billion.

- Forecast ¥75 billion factoring in the impact of exchange rates and U.S tariffs.
 - Unit sales of commercial & industrial IJPs, office shared IJPs, and microdevices are expected to increase. Fiery will also contribute to profit growth.
 - We expect to keep prices for high-capacity ink tank printers at about the same level as last year. An improved projector model mix is expected to positively impact profit, while prices for microdevices are expected to decline.
 - Transportation costs will increase.
 - In other costs, we will implement cost control actions.

Cause analysis of change in business profit

*1 Fiery's share of the business profit equivalent is entirely accounted for as a change in unit sales in the current outlook.

*2 Includes the effects of inventory changes

- This shows a cause analysis of change in business profit.
- The global economy in the 2025 fiscal year is clouded by uncertainty, but the shift from analog to digital printing in the commercial & industrial printing industry will continue.
- Unit sales of commercial & industrial inkjet printers are expected to increase, and Fiery will also contribute to profit growth.
- We will act to maintain prices of high-capacity ink tank printers. These and other actions are expected to keep prices at about the same level as last year.
- Higher ocean freight costs are expected to cause transportation costs to increase.
- As for other costs, we will implement cost control actions.
- After estimating ¥108 billion after these factors, we took into account exchange rate and U.S. tariff impacts, resulting in a forecast of ¥75 billion.

Commercial & Industrial Printing

- Finished products: Expand and enhance the lineup and grow sales.
- Printhead sales: Expand sales in China, the largest market.
- Fiery's results are reflected in the commercial & industrial IJP category.
- Small printers: Sales are expected to be steady.

- Next, let's look at the situation segment by segment.
- Printing solutions will be negatively impacted by exchange rate volatility, and we expect revenue to decline by ¥30.1 billion to ¥950 billion and segment profit to decline by ¥18.8 billion to ¥106 billion.
- Office & home printing revenue will decline due to foreign exchange effects.
- In SOHO and home inkjet printer hardware, we expect a slight increase in unit sales of high-capacity ink tank printers, with prices remaining at similar levels to last year due to the introduction of new products.
- In office shared inkjet printers, we will continue to expand the lineup and enhance solution proposals to end-users in order to accelerate the replacement of laser printers.
- As for ink sales, we expect sales of high-capacity ink bottles and ink for office shared printers to increase but sales of ink cartridges to decrease.
- Business profit is expected to decline mainly due to the decline in ink revenue.
- We expect revenue in commercial & industrial printing to increase on sales growth, but business profit is remaining flat year on year due to foreign exchange effects.
- The finished products business will increase sales by expanding and enhancing the lineup.
- Printhead sales will further expand sales in China, the largest market.
- Fiery's business is reflected in the commercial & industrial inkjet printer category.
- Sales of small printers are expected to be steady, supported by replacement demand.

■ Visual Communications

- Projectors: The market environment is expected to remain challenging.
- Reduced inventory will negatively impact profit.

■ Manufacturing-related & Wearables

- Manufacturing solutions: Launch price-competitive products. Continue to reduce costs and drive other operational reforms.
- Wearable products: No major change in market conditions is expected.
- Microdevices, other: The market is expected to gradually recover. The effects of fixed cost reductions and other cost cutting in the previous year will become apparent.

- Visual communications revenue is expected to come in at ¥189 billion, a decrease of ¥14.7 billion, due to foreign exchange effects.
- Projector demand in the education market is expected to remain soft, but growth is forecast in home projectors and in the high-lumen category.
- We forecast ¥19 billion in segment profit, a decrease of ¥10 billion due to the negative impact of inventory reductions on profit as well as foreign exchange effects.
- In manufacturing related and wearables, we expect ¥187 billion in revenue, an increase of ¥5.5 billion. Segment profit is seen increasing by ¥14.2 billion to ¥11 billion.
- Manufacturing solutions customers are still being cautious about investing, but we aim to increase sales by introducing strategically priced products.
- Operational reforms, including the fixed cost reductions that we introduced last year, are expected to improve profitability.
- We do not foresee substantial change in wearable products market conditions, but we will continue taking action to improve profitability.
- The microdevices market is expected to gradually recover.
- We expect to see the benefits of last year's efforts to reduce fixed and other costs.
- Segment profit will rise due to a combination of higher revenue and lower costs.

- We forecast ¥70 billion in capital expenditures, and ¥72 billion in depreciation and amortization expenses.
- We expect ¥50 billion in free cash flows, an increase from last year, when we acquired Fiery.
- The main management indices are as shown here.

■ Dividends

- Expect to pay an annual dividend of 74 yen per share for FY2025
 - ✓ Continue to provide stable dividends, with a consolidated dividend payout ratio* of about 40% over the mid-term

■ Share repurchase

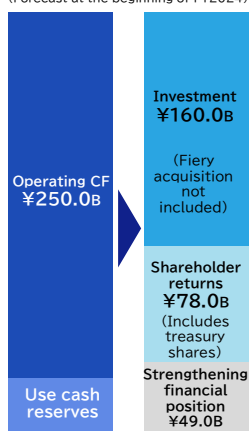

- Acquired and retired approx. ¥30 billion in treasury shares in FY2024

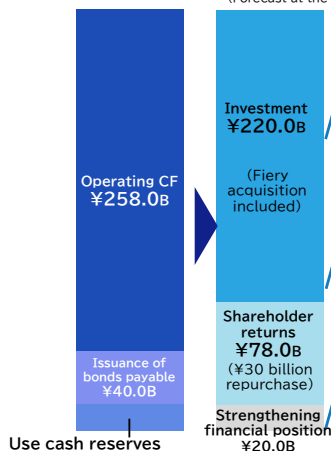

- Next, I will explain shareholder returns.
- We expect to pay an annual dividend of 74 yen per share in the 2025 fiscal year.
- We will continue to pay steady dividends in line with our basic policy.
- In the 2024 fiscal year, we acquired and retired approximately ¥30 billion in treasury shares.
- Going forward, we will continue to improve capital efficiency and actively return profits to shareholders.

- In FY2024, we generally invested in accordance with our growth strategy and also acquired Fiery.
- We will continue to prioritize investments for future growth while proactively providing shareholder returns.

- Let's take a look at cash allocation.
- In the 2024 fiscal year, we generally invested as planned in accordance with our growth strategy and, moreover, acquired Fiery.
- Going forward, we will continue to prioritize investments for future growth while proactively providing shareholder returns.

- In printing, our key business, we will leverage our core inkjet technology and printheads to pursue initiatives aimed at improving short-term business performance and driving mid to long-term growth.
 - Evolve solution offerings (Fiery synergies, organizational support) and expand the customer base (expand into new domains).

- Finally, I would like to present some of the initiatives being pursued to transform Epson.
- In printing, our key business, we will leverage our core inkjet technology and printheads to pursue initiatives aimed at improving short term performance and driving mid and long term growth.
- In the short term, we will look to create synergies with Fiery, whose strength lies in software, and propose solutions that solve customer's printing-related issues.
- We will also allocate more resources to the printhead sales business in order to further enhance customer value.
- In the commercial & industrial inkjet printer business, we will capture customer needs in a timely fashion and accelerate the enhancement of customer value through organizational actions.
- We are also expanding into new domains to achieve mid and long term growth.
- In April, we made an investment to promote the use of inkjet technology in the fabrication of perovskite solar cells.
- Moving forward, we will continue to maximize the use of our inkjet and other efficient, compact, and precise technologies to address societal issues and achieve sustainable growth for Epson.

■ Disclaimer regarding forward-looking statements

The foregoing statements regarding future results reflect the Company's expectations based on information available at the time of announcement. The information contains certain forward-looking statements that are subject to known and unknown risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed or implied by such statements. Such risks and uncertainties include, but are not limited to, the competitive environment, market trends, general economic conditions, technological changes, exchange rate fluctuations and our ability to continue to timely introduce new products and services.

■ Note regarding business profit

Business profit is calculated by deducting cost of sales and SGA expenses from revenue. Although not defined in the statement of consolidated comprehensive income, this indicator is very similar to the concept of operating income under J-GAAP. Epson will present this information as a reference, as the Company believes users of financial statements will find it useful when evaluating Epson's financial performance.

■ Numerical values presented herein

Numbers are rounded down to the unit indicated. Percentages are rounded off to one decimal place. Years mentioned in these materials are fiscal years unless otherwise indicated.
